Just like roasting meats, the Rival roaster's directions for baking require you to preheat the oven. Metal pans work best for baking in a roaster oven because they help brown the food and conduct heat better. Insert the roasting rack into the roaster and put the pan on that instead of putting the pans directly into the roasting pan.

Set the rack in the bottom of your roaster, and preheat it to your preferred cooking temperature. Rival roaster directions call for a temperature of 375 degrees Fahrenheit for a pre-basted bird, or 350F for a fresh one. You can take that down further if you wish, though the USDA recommends going no lower than 325F to ensure food safety.

Another crucial difference between roasting in your oven and using a roaster is the issue of heat loss. Opening your oven causes some heat loss, which is why many cooks bakers preheat to a higher temperature and then lower it when the roast goes in. Opening the oven periodically to baste your bird or test a roast for doneness also causes heat loss, but the oven's powerful heating elements or ...
